

Position Title: Marketing/Sales Manager
Position Location: Hollywood, California
Facility: Lange Medical Media

Time for a Change?

If you are tired of the corporate life and would like an opportunity to spread your marketing/sales wings, be passionate about your work, and see the impact of its results, this could be the position you're seeking. You'd be working with a small and highly creative staff that produces medical videos and online medical media, and authors/publishes related medical books for the biomedical device and pharmaceutical industry. Tired of cubicles? In this position you'd be working in a Hollywood Hills production studio, side by side with colleagues who enjoy this most professional and creative atmosphere. Excellence? We've been successful for over 15 years with the unique leadership of a physician/director/author.

You: Highly responsible, motivated by the intellectual challenge of identifying opportunities and creating winning strategies that meet our revenue goals, pleasantly confident, known for both your strategic and tactical marketing skills, and an outstanding writer/communicator.

Us: Waiting for your resume

Education and Experience Requirements

- Business or marketing-related degree or equivalent professional qualification
- Experience in all aspects of developing and maintaining marketing strategies
- Technical marketing skills, including PR, social media, web, advertising, etc.
- Proven experience in developing customer relationships
- 5+ years in relevant marketing/sales position in biomedical device or pharmaceutical industries or marketing agency that serves them. An absolute must.
- Experience with relevant software applications

For more information and to apply, please email to medmarketingandsales@gmail.com